ADX General Index <.ADI> closed at 5,041.95 point. The close of the index above all MAs on the weekly chart is a positive sign along with its continuous move within the 3-years ascending trend line and further gains could still be seen on the coming period. The next layer of resistance comes at 5,100 point before 5,170 point. However, a move back below 5,000 point would lead to 4,900 point but only losing this will lead to a re-test of the strong support level at 4,670 point.

Medium-term and long-term investors can stay in the market with a stop-loss below 5,000 point and 4,900 point, respectively.

Emirates Telecommunications Group Co.

Reuters Ticker: <ETEL.AD>

Price closed at AED16.720. The stock encounters a resistance level at AED17.400, while a cross over this would increase the upside chances and call for an advance towards AED18.150 before AED19.100 but only above AED20.200 will establish a new bullish trend. On the counter side, the nearby support levels are located at AED16.440 and AED15.860 but only a dip below the strong horizontal line at AED14.900 would lead to a deeper bearish tone to AED14.100 before AED12.650.

Price closed at AED8.520. The stock saw some relief after it retreated from a multi-year high at AED10.260. A jump over AED9.000 should call for a re-test of AED10.260 but only above this will confirm a positive continuation pattern and target AED11.700. However, a fall below the recent support level at AED8.180 will increase the downside risk and lead to further correction towards AED7.370 and AED6.500.

Definitions

Technical Analysis: Aims to identify the direction of prices and reveal any indication of possible changes as soon as possible, so it can be used as much as possible in making buying and selling decisions in the most appropriate time in order to minimize risk and maximize profits.

Trend: The general direction of a market or of the price of an asset.

Resistance: A chart point or range that caps an increase in the level of a stock or index over a period of time.

Support: The price level which, historically, a stock has had difficulty falling below. It is thought of as the level at which a lot of buyers tend to enter the stock.

Breakout: A signal that prices are beginning to trend, either upward or downward.

Bull: An investor who thinks the market, a specific security or an industry is likely to rise.

Bear: An investor who thinks the market, a specific security or an industry is likely to decline.

Channel: is two parallel trend lines either rising or declining.

Consolidation Area: is a sideways movement in prices that interrupts or reverse a trend.

Moving Average (MA): The most common applications of MAs are to identify the trend direction and to determine support and resistance levels.

MACD (Moving Average Convergence-Divergence): A trend-following momentum indicator that shows the relationship between two moving averages of prices.

Relative Strength Index: A technical momentum indicator (ranges from 0 to 100) that compares the magnitude of recent gains to recent losses in an attempt to determine overbought and oversold conditions of an asset.

Overbought: A situation in which the price of a security has risen to such a degree that an oscillator has reached its upper bound. This is generally interpreted as a sign that the price of the asset is becoming overvalued and may experience a pullback.

Oversold: A situation in which the price of a security has fallen to such a degree that an oscillator has reached its upper bound. This is generally interpreted as a sign that the price of the asset is becoming undervalued and may represent a buying opportunity for investors.

Fibonacci: A term refers to areas of support or resistance and to help identify strategic places for transactions to be placed, target prices or stop losses.

On Balance Volume (OBV): is a simple running total of up day (added) and down day (subtracted) volume. If OBV is moving with price, it confirms the current trend. Divergences between OBV and price indicates the price may be due for a reversal.
